Robinson Confesses to the Crime.

The Coroner's Jury Renders Its Decision and Charges That Dick Robinson Killed Hannah Schollman.

A CROOKED STORY.

He is Held For the Grand Jury For Murder in the First Degree—Death Awaits Him.

The mystery of the terrible murder that aroused Sedalia to a fever heat when the body of Hannah Schollman, a domestic, was found Monday morning, has been solved. Dick Robinson, the negro, has confessed to the crime, the coroner's jury has rendered its verdict accordingly, and the negro stands charged with murder in the first degree.

There is an old, old story that murder will out and that the man whose hands are stained with human blood can never escape. The people of Sedalia, whether white or black, should feel thankful that the law has now under its mighty hand the atrocious murderer who has added another crime to the criminal calendar of the city. Its majesty will be sustained and retribution meted out to the guilty.

It was generally understood at a late hour yesterday afternoon that Robinson had made a confession in the jail at California. This was strengthened by the fact that Sheriff Ellis R. Smith and Capt. J. J. Kinney were seen to leave on the noon train for the east, their destination being California.

The coroner's jury adjourned yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, met again at 8 p. m. and then adjourned until this morning when it was called to order at 8:30 o'clock. Sheriff Smith having arrived home at 1 o'clock a. m. from California, he was summoned to the jury room to testify regarding Robinson's confession. He read the confession verbatim as follows:

The Confession.

Hannah Schollman left Mr. Stevens' house about 5 o'clock last Sunday evening to go to Mr. Miller's, on the corner of Wilkerson street and Grand avenue. The next time I saw her I met her at the north side of Prospect street, near the school house, about 8:30 p. m. Sunday, October 23. We walked together from Second street to Grand avenue, from there to Broadway, then to Moniteau street, then direct south to Hunefelt's (her uncle's).

We stopped at the gate and talked. She quarreled with me about Taylor Williams. She said she had a notion to cut my throat. She drew a knife to cut my throat and I knocked her down with my fist. She got upon her feet and struck at me with the knife and I grabbed the knife and knocked her down the second time.

She said: "You s— of a —"

GOOD TIMES COMING.

Sedalia Is Advancing.

We have been looking out for big bargains and have found them. It is for you, not for ourselves that we have been watching. Our interest is yours. If you want to buy a good, first class 8 per cent. note on real estate, come and buy of us. It is safe to buy any kind of real estate now and while prices are low, and we have such big bargains, as above stated. We write insurance, loan money and buy and sell real estate.

I am going to kill you, or I will have it done."

She got up again and I threw her down and sat down by her side.

I said: "Hannah, what do you mean?"

She said: "One of us has got to die to-night."

I told her to go into the house. (That is her uncle's house). I gave her back the knife on the south side of the hedge, near the middle of the street. I then started to go home.

She said: "If you will come back I will behave myself and go into the house. I just want to speak to you one minute."

I went back to her again and she made a break at me with the knife. I grabbed her and said: "Hannah, you had better quit. I ain't going to run from you any more."

She said: "One of us has got to die. If you don't kill me, I will kill you."

She got the knife fastened so she could not get to use it on me. I took the knife away from her, and said:

"Hannah, if one of us has got to die," I said, "I had just as well be hung for you as you for me. I then struck her in the throat with the knife and she fell at my feet, but did not say a word. (The blood did not spurt out of her throat on to me. It just seeped out). This clause was not in the written confession, but was stated by Robinson.

This took place at the corner of the hedge, at about 10 o'clock that night.

After she had fallen I stooped down and said to her, "Hannah." She did not answer. I thought I had cut her windpipe, as she did not answer me. She lay there about five minutes, and then I dragged her by catching hold of her just above her knees and dragged her about thirty feet from where I killed her.

I then threw the knife into the hedge fence. I then left her lying on the ground, and I came home by coming down Moniteau street to Broadway, then to Grand avenue, then to Wilkerson, then to Quincy street, then home to Mr. Stevens' stable.

I had been down town during the next day (Monday) and heard the people talking, and I thought I had better hide the bundle (that is, the bundle that had the comb, pocket-book and gown belonging to Hannah) in the manure pile in the south side of Stevens' barn.

[Hannah gave me the bundle before we left the corner of Third street and Grand avenue, and I hid it there till I came back, when I got it and put it in the buggy I had out that evening. I took it from the buggy and hid it in the manure pile.] This clause not in written confession, but stated by Robinson.

All the money I had that Sunday evening and up to the time I was arrested was $1.20. I did not get a $5 bill changed, nor did I offer a $5 bill to the liveryman to pay for the buggy and horse.

Hannah and I were never criminally intimate. If she was a bad girl I did not know it.

I got the buggy to take Francis Williams out riding, but she would not go. Francis lives north of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

The above statement has been made of my own will and accord, and is a correct and true statement.

Witnesses:
JOHN J. KINNEY,
ELLIS R. SMITH.

While the jury felt that sufficient evidence had been obtained to return a verdict against Robinson without the confession, yet his story was the last and strongest link in the chain. The jurors had undergone long and tedious work since Monday and were glad to end their labors. Sheriff Smith having completed his testimony, the following verdict was rendered and signed by the jurors:

Verdict of Coroner's Jury.
SEDALIA, Mo., Oct. 27, 1892.

We, the undersigned coroner's jury, of Pettis county, after mature deliberation as to how and by whom Hannah Schollman came to her death, find that her death was the result of blows from the fist and a stroke into the neck at hands of Richard Robinson, colored, on the evening of the 23rd of October, 1892.

[Signed.]
E. MUEHL, Coroner,
E. E. JOHNSTON, Foreman,
FRANK NEWTON,
JOSEPH KINSLEY,
F. S. ARNOLD,
WM. COURTNEY,
W. P. HALEY.

Of course, the vital point of the confession is the fact that Robinson killed the woman, yet the story is tangled and unsatisfactory in details. Robinson will undoubtedly now make a fuller and more truthful confession.

Sheriff Smith, under oath, states that the confession was made in the jail at California, at about 5 p. m., to himself and Capt. J. J. Kinney. Robinson stoutly denied having had Miss Schollman out riding in a buggy.

As he was being taken to California night before last, he stated that he hid the nightgown, etc., to shield another person and there were some who gave credence to the information that perhaps he was only an accomplice. He endeavored to substantiate this theory at the beginning of the confession yesterday afternoon and told a most unreliable story. He stated that on the night of the murder he was near the Prospect school house and heard Hannah talking loudly with some one. The party with whom she had been talking left and Robinson went to the woman and together they walked all the way from Quincy avenue south to Mr. Hunefelt's, her uncle's. She stood talking at the gate for a short time when a man suddenly approached and knocked Robinson down with a club. The assailant then struck Hannah who ran toward the house. The man then started toward the negro again when the latter commenced running and made a complete circuit of the block. The man had disappeared when he came back. He then found Hannah lying dead.

This story was so improbable that the sheriff told him no such "Mulhatton tales" would be accepted, and advised him to tell the truth. Robinson then made the confession.

The work of the coroner's jury is now open to inspection, and presents few details of importance other than what have already been printed in the DEMOCRAT.

There are some few points of interest in the story of Amiel Meyer, a young German employed at Mayor Stevens' stable. Briefly he says:

Started for the barn from home, opposite park on West Main street, about 6 or 7 o'clock Sunday evening to feed the horses. Dick offered to feed my team if I would go up town and get him a half pint of whisky. I did so, and on returning met him in the alley between Quincy and Prospect streets. Told me to close stable doors. I said that I was going up town to get some tobacco. I was on horseback and he got on behind and rode with me as far as livery stable near Second and Vermont. He got off there at about 7 o'clock. * * * I returned home after eleven o'clock; Dick had not come back. Tom Swepston said: "Is that you, Dick?" I said "no." Tom said Dick was not there. Dick had mentioned to me that he was going out riding. I said, "I would like to know who is going out riding on a cold night like this." He did not answer the question. He had not returned when I left. * * * Dick asked me to pay for the whisky and then said that he would pay me back. As a general rule Dick did not have much money. When I remarked to him "Who is going out riding with you on a night like this," he said "I can stand it if she can." He also said "I promised to take her out."

Peter Jackson Challenges James Corbett for a Fight to a Finish.
Special to the Democrat.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Peter Jackson, the famous colored pugilist, arrived on the Teutonic to-day and at once issued a challenge to James Corbett for a fight to a finish.

The fact of a former meeting between the two having been declared a draw will give unusual interest to the proposed contest.

A FAST MILE.

SEDALIANS WITNESS IT AT ASSOCIATION PARK.

The Races Justify a Fine Attendance and To-day Will be a Great Day.

About 2000 people turned out to see the second day's races at the park. The weather was cool and the track in splendid shape, causing some fast time to be made. Several horses started to lower the records but few of them were able to do so. Among the fortunate ones were Admore 2:26 1/4 to 2:24, Maud 2:32 1/2 to 2:30 3/4 and Billy H. 2:34 to 2:27 1/4. These were some of the special features. Bell Acton, the fast little yearling who has a mile in 2:20 1/2 to her credit, was unable to beat it only getting there in 2:26. The first race was a pretty contest between Pansy Blossom and Jersey Girl and resulted in the former being the victor.

The 2:21 trot for a $300 purse, was a hot contest between Ciceron and Prince Herschel, both horses trotting neck and neck for the three heats, the former only winning two of the heats by a head.

The 2:30 trot, for 3-year-olds, was the last race booked for the day, but darkness came on and left the race unfinished. The following shows the heats that were trotted:

About two o'clock Budd Doble appeared on the track behind the nimble Martha Wilkes. She was received with cheers, many admiring glances being cast at her finely formed limbs and the ease with which she passed over the ground. After a thorough warming up, Martha was sent to the stable for a good rub down. At 4 o'clock she appeared for the trial to lower her own record of 2:08. Mr. J. L. Colored Mass Meeting.

The following call has been issued by the colored men of the city:

In order to express our condemnation of the many foul and atrocious deeds that have recently blackened the fair name of Sedalia, and the very dastardly murder which was committed last Sunday night, and that we may co-operate with those citizens who have already begun to devise plans by which the law-abiding citizens may be better protected, we sincerely ask the presence of every colored citizen in Sedalia at the M. E. church, corner Lamine and Henry streets, at 7:30 p. m., Thursday, October 27, 1892.

TO SPEAK HERE.Saturday Evening the Date For a
Grand Democratic Rally
in Sedalia.

There will be a grand democratic rally in this city Saturday night, the 29th, and Dick Dalton, the peerless orator and democrat, will address the people.

Democrats will meet at the market house square at 7 p. m. with torches and bands and march to East Sedalia where Col. Dalton will speak a few minutes and then all will march to the court house.

Clubs from the country will be present.

Mayor E. W. Stevens will be chief marshal.

WILL SPEAK TO-NIGHT.

Hon. John M. Glover at the Court House.

Hon. John M. Glover, one of the ablest orators in the state, is in the city and will speak at the court house in advocacy of democratic principles to-night. Hear him.

Sale of Fine Horses.

At the executor's sale of the standard bred horses of the late Reuben Gentry at the Fair grounds yesterday. Thirty-six head of the finest horses ever brought to Missouri were sold, bringing the small sum of $14,000, or less than one half their real value. Twenty head remain to be sold to-morrow. Parties desiring a bargain in fine horses will do well to attend. The sale will begin promptly at 9 o'clock.

McKinley's Speech.

About 2000 people heard Governor McKinley speak at the Union Depot and when he had finished they dispersed and it seemed that the entire crowd was of the same opinion for they were soon found gathered at the opera house bar partaking of the celebrated Faust beer and enjoying the well known hospitality of the genial proprietor, Chas. H. Raiffeisen.

Houston Smith, Wm. Mann, Wm. Williams and Seymour Williams are back from their big camping tour on the Niangua.

Allen Dorman, the Henry county poet, is up to see the races and will possibly "do" Nancy in verse.

Col. E. C. More, of Boone county, orator, diplomat and enthusiastic democrat, is in the city to see if Nancy Hanks can break her record.

Capt. Allison, one of the prominent horsemen of Saline, is seeing the races today.

Col. T. E. Spencer, principal of Marmaduke military academy, was in the city last night.

Hon. Jno. M. Glover, who was booked to speak last night but failed to make connections, is in the city today.

"A Kentucky Colonel."

In an extended criticism the Louisville Courier-Journal says:

"When Mr. Opie Read, who had gained a reputation of a professional writer of jokes and funny stories, diverged into serious work and made a bid for literary recognition by writing 'A Kentucky Colonel,' he had reason to feel a considerable degree of satisfaction. There was made evident a serious and sustained purpose to produce a story on which, while observing the cardinal requirements of good fiction, there should be a faithful reflection of local color in a field little tilled and company supposed to be rich in material. His use of the Kentucky feud was happy. The story is a very absorbing one, the incidents are quite naturally and simply arranged, and there is sufficient plot. The most conspicuous features, however, and the one which substantiates its claim to the chief commendation, is the character drawing. They are real, living, representative types, the product of their surroundings, possessing distinct qualities which make for individuality." Wood's opera house, Oct. 31.

For two years (since I have been in business in Sedalia) I have been increasing my shoe trade.

How do I do this? By selling you poor goods at a high price?

No; this can only be done by selling better goods for less money than you can get elsewhere.

We are the live pioneers of low prices. We dive to the rock bottom. Other houses advertise to meet competition. We advertise to go one step farther and beat it.

We are selling a line of children's shoes for 75 cents, $1.00 and $1.25 that are fine school shoes. Every pair guaranteed.

Our stock of ladies' shoes is complete, prices ranging from $1.00 up.

I sell for $1.25 a line of oil grain, glove grain and pebble grain that you will find hard to match at twenty-five to fifty cents more money. I also guarantee this line.

I have a fine Dongola cushion made shoe at $2. This is a very reliable shoe and cannot be had elsewhere for less than $2.50.

I have ladies shoes at all prices from $1 to $5 and guarantee I can fit your foot, head and pocket book all with the same shoe.

Our men's shoes run from $1, $1.25, $1.50, $2, $3, $4.

Bargains for every one. Boots! We have them.

Robinson Confesses to the Crime.

A FULL CONFESSION.

The Coroner's Jury Renders Its Decision and Charges That Dick Robinson Killed Hannah Schollman.

A CROOKED STORY.

He is Held For The Grand Jury For Murder In The First Degree—Death Awaits Him.

The mystery of the terrible murder that aroused Sedalia to a fever heat when the body of Hannah Schollman, a domestic, was found Monday morning, has been solved.

Dick Robinson, the negro, has confessed to the crime, the coroner's jury has rendered its verdict accordingly, and the negro stands charged with murder in the first degree.

There is an old, old story that murder will out and that the man whose hands are stained with human blood can never escape. The people of Sedalia, whether white or black, should feel thankful that the law has now under its mighty hand the atrocious murderer who has added another crime to the criminal calendar of the city. Its majesty will be sustained and retribution meted out to the guilty.

It was generally understood at a late hour Wednesday afternoon that Robinson had made a confession in the jail at California. This was strengthened by the fact that Sheriff Ellis R. Smith and Capt. J. J. Kinney were seen to leave on the noon train for the east, their destination being California.

The coroner's jury adjourned Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, met again at 8 p. m. and then adjourned until Thursday, when it was called to order at 8:30 o'clock.

Sheriff Smith having arrived home at 1 o'clock a. m. from California, he was summoned to the jury room to testify regarding Robinson's confession. He read the confession verbatim as follows:

The Confession.

Hannah Schollman left Mr. Stevens' house about 5 o'clock last Sunday evening to go to Mr. Miller's, on the corner of Wilkerson street and Grand avenue. The next time I saw her I met her at the north side of Prospect street, near the school house, about 8:30 p. m. Sunday, October 23. We walked together from Second street to Grand avenue, from there to Broadway, then to Moniteau street, then direct south to Hunerfelt's (her uncle's).

We stopped at the gate and talked. She quarreled with me about Taylor Williams. She said she had a notion to cut my throat. She drew a knife to cut my throat and I knocked her down with my fist. She got upon her feet and struck at me with the knife and I grabbed the knife and knocked her down the second time.

She said: "You—of a—, I am going to kill you, or I will have it done."

She got up again and I threw her down and sat down by her side.

I said: "Hannah, what do you mean?"

She said: "One of us has got to die to-night."

I told her to go into the house. (That is her uncle's house). I gave her back the knife on the south side of the hedge, near the middle of the street. I then started to go home.

She said: "If you will come back I will behave myself and go into the house. I just want to speak to you one minute."

I went back to her again and she made a break at me with the knife I grabbed her and said: "Hannah, you had better quit. I ain't going to run from you any more."

She said: "One of us has got to die. If you don't kill me, I will kill you."

She got the knife fastened so she could not get to use it on me. I took the knife away from her, and said:

"Hannah, if one of us has got to die," I said, "I had just as well be hung for you as you for me. I then struck her in the throat with the knife and she fell at my feet, but did not say a word. (The blood did not spurt out of her throat on to me. It just seeped out). This clause was not in the written confession, but was stated by Robinson.

This took place at the corner of the hedge, at about 10 o'clock that night.

After she had fallen I stooped down and said to her, "Hannah." She did not answer. I thought I had cut her windpipe, as she did not answer me. She lay there about five minutes, and then I dragged her by catching hold of her just above her knees and dragged her about thirty feet from where I killed her.

I then threw the knife into the hedge fence. I then left her lying on the ground, and I came home by coming down Moniteau street to Broadway, then to Grand avenue, then to Wilkerson, then to Quincy street, then home to Mr. Stevens' stable.

I had been down town during the next day (Monday) and heard the people talking, and I thought I had better hide the bundle (that is, the bundle that had the comb, pocket-book and gown belonging to Hannah) in the manure pile in the south side of Stevens' barn.

[Hannah gave me the bundle before we left the corner of Third street and Grand avenue, and I hid it there till I came back, when I got it and put it in the buggy I had out that evening. I took it from the buggy and hid it in the manure pile.] This clause not in written confession, but stated by Robinson.

All the money I had that Sunday evening and up to the time I was arrested was $2.20.

Verdict of Coroner's Jury

SEDALIA, Mo., Oct. 27, 1892. We, the undersigned coroner's jury, of Pettis county, after mature deliberation as to how and by whom Hannah Schollman came to her death, find that her death was the result of blows from the fist and a stroke into the neck at hands of Richard Robinson, colored, on the evening of the 23rd of October, 1892.

[Signed.]
E. MUEHL, Coroner,
E. E. JOHNSTON, Foreman,
FRANK NEWTON,
JOSEPH KINSLEY,
F. S. ARNOLD,
WM. COURTNEY,
W. P. HALEY.

Of course, the vital point of the confession is the fact that Robinson killed the woman, yet the story is tangled and unsatisfactory in details. Robinson will undoubtedly now make a fuller and more truthful confession.

Sheriff Smith, under oath, states that the confession was made in the jail at California, at about 5 p. m. to himself and Capt. J. J. Kinney. Robinson stoutly denied having had Miss Schollman out riding in a buggy.

As he was being taken to California night before last, he stated that he hid the nightgown, etc., to shield another person and there were some who gave credence to the intimation that perhaps he was only an accomplice. He endeavored to substantiate this theory at the beginning of the confession yesterday afternoon and told a most unreliable story. He stated that on the night of the murder he was near the Prospect school house and heard Hannah talking loudly with some one. The party with whom she had been talking left and Robinson went to the woman and together they walked all the way from Quincy avenue south to Mr. Hunerfelt's, her uncle's. She stood talking at the gate for a short time when a man suddenly approached and knocked Robinson down with a club. The assailant then struck Hannah who ran toward the house. The man then started toward the negro again when the latter commenced running and made a complete circuit of the block. The man had disappeared when he came back. He then found Hannah lying dead.

This story was so improbable that the sheriff told him no such "Mulhatton tales" would be accepted, and advised him to tell the truth. Robinson then made the confession.

The work of the coroner's jury is now open to inspection, and presents few details of importance other than what have already been printed in the DEMOCRAT.

There are some few points of interest in the story of Amiel Meyer, a young German employed at Mayor Stevens' stable. Briefly he says:

Started for the barn from home, opposite park on West Main street, about 6 or 7 o'clock Sunday evening to feed the horses. Dick offered to feed my team if I would go up town and get him a half pint of whisky. I did so, and on returning met him in the alley between Quincy and Prospect streets. Told me to close stable doors. I said that I was going up town to get some tobacco. I was on horseback and he got on behind and rode with me as far as livery stable near Second and Vermont. He got off there at about 7 o'clock. * * * I returned home after eleven o'clock. Dick had not come back. Tom Swepston said: "Is that you, Dick?" I said "no." Tom said: "Dick was not there. Dick had mentioned to me that he was going out riding. I said, "I

He Hires a Horse from a Second Street Stable—How the Arrest Came About—Now in Jail.

Two Sedalia newspaper men started at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon to run down, if possible, the murderer.

Henry Otten, the expert horse-shoer, was taken to the corner of Wilkerson and Grand avenue, where the prints of the buggy wheels and the horse's hoofs were still plainly visible. This place, the residence of Henry Miller, is where the mysterious man called for the woman.

The buggy wheels were four feet and seven inches apart; the tires $\frac{7}{8}$ of an inch wide. The two front hoof prints of the horse's feet were large and round, and showed that shoe plates were worn. The hind feet were of peculiar shape, especially the right one, which is called a "pigeon toe."

On the return the feed stable of A. J. Fields, on West Second, was visited. In answer to a question he stated that he had no horses for hire, conducting nothing but a feed stable.

As the reporters started to leave, he remarked that "since thinking about it, he did hire a horse last night," and in a casual way said that "Dick, Mayor Stevens' negro, had taken a horse and buggy about 6:30 o'clock last night and returned with it about 9."

This was a windfall, as the negro had been strongly suspected all day.

The horse was brought out and Mr. Otten examined him. He at once pronounced it the same one that had been driven to Mr. Miller's house. The peculiarly shaped hind feet were strongly marked.

The buggy was then examined and the measurements found to correspond with those already obtained. The carpet in the bottom of the buggy was then taken to the light and a startling discovery made.

In many places were found spots of different sizes and which everybody pronounced to be blood.

This was damaging to Robinson, as he had emphatically told the officers that he had been to a meeting last night.

The carpet was brought up town and Marshal DeLong notified. He at once saw that the circumstances pointed to Robinson in a way that could not be ignored.

From the fact that the woman had thought of marrying the negro and had changed her mind and was going to marry a man in Nebraska, it was seen that there was a motive to prompt him to commit the deed.

Robinson's arrest was accordingly made, and he is now in the county jail with the most damaging of circumstantial evidence against him.

The details of the relations between the negro and the woman while the latter was alive are almost incredible—the fact that both were seemingly in love with each other, being too outrageous for decent people to think about.

A reporter saw Robinson at the jail. He said he had been out riding last night with Francis Williams, who lives north of the track.

The woman was seen later by a DEMOCRAT reporter and she stoutly denied that she had been riding with Robinson.

John Schollman and wife, parents of the girl, and her brother-in-law, Theodore Eken, arrived in the city from Lincoln Monday

COULD FURNISH A PALACE.

So Magnificent is the Stock of a Prominent Sedalia Business House.

It is seldom that a writer has so agreeable a task as that of describing the great queensware and glassware house of D. I. Holcomb. So inexhaustive and complete in every detail is the stock and appointments of his store, that one could write a book and then fail to describe all the things worth seeing.

His business building in its entirety is 307 feet long and has a fronting on both Main and Second streets, the upper floors being continuously connected by a large archway. This arrangement gives the immense space of 27,400 square feet of flooring.

The Main street floor, No. 113, is filled mostly with house furnishing goods, such as willow ware, baskets, tables, baby buggies, chairs, etc. The wooden ware is extensive, and includes everything that could possibly be needed in a household. The novelties in this department are so numerous that nothing short of a visit will give one an adequate idea of it.

It is to the store, No. 114 West Second street, that one turns with more than ordinary interest. Are you a lover of art? Do you admire the most exquisite perfection of color, shape and execution? If you are, a visit to this department will well repay you. The collection of cut glass, decorated china, fancy bisque figures, etc., has never been equaled before in Sedalia. There are over 200 different designs of hanging lamps, all of them beautiful and highly ornamental.

As the winter nights come on, nothing can add more to the cheerfulness of the fireside than a good lamp. The piano, students' and banquet lamps are of the latest designs. The silverware and table cutlery is of the finest quality and is sold at inviting prices. Over 100 styles of dinner sets, valued at $10 to $125, affords an easy selection. Mr. Holcomb and his clerks are always ready and glad to show you through the store and you should not fail to call.

Too Much of a Risk.

It is not unusual for colds contracted in the fall to hang on all winter. In such cases catarrh or chronic bronchitis are almost sure to result. A fifty cent bottle of Chamberlain's cough remedy will cure any cold. Can you afford to risk so much for so small an amount? This remedy is intended especially for bad colds and croup and can always be depended upon. For sale by Aug. Fleischmann.

THE PRACTICAL JOKER.

A Bit of Alleged Humor Makes Thos. Millington a Raving Maniac.

MILAN, Tenn., Oct. 24.—A horrible joke was perpetrated on Thos. Millington at Chestnut on Saturday night. Some young men procured a coffin and marched Millington to a lonely spot, where he was told that if he did not disclose the whereabouts of a fictitious treasure he would be buried alive. He refused, but in spite of his prayers, was put in the coffin and buried for an hour. When taken out he was a raving maniac. The assailants have fled.

FAST EXPRESS.

It Runs Into a Coal Train Near Philadelphia.

DISASTER OCCURS IN A TUNNEL.

The Wreck Takes Fire and Terrible Deaths By Cremation Follows—Ten Killed and Probably Forty Injured.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—The fast express train from Shamokin on the Reading road, due here at 9:30 yesterday morning, ran into a coal train in the West Manayunk tunnel, 10 miles from the Reading station here, and a collision resulted in which, according to the latest estimates, at least ten persons were killed. The cars caught fire in the tunnel and several of the bodies were burned.

The Shamokin express usually leaves the upper coal regions on Monday morning loaded with men employed along the line who take advantage of their Sunday's rest to go home Saturday nights and spend the day with their families.

The first rumor to reach the city was that eight persons had been killed and a number injured. This was followed later by the more alarming statement that not less than twenty-eight lives had been lost, and later still, the figures rose to the appalling total of fifty-two killed, but at noon it was declared that ten were dead and forty injured.

The ill-fated train was known as No. 2 which leaves Shamokin at 5 a. m., Pottsville at 7 and Reading an hour later. It is an express and makes few stops. It was running on the north-bound track, which had been ordered kept clear, when a few minutes after 9 o'clock it crashed into engine No. 54, running north in the Manayunk tunnel.

The engine of No. 54 had been ordered to lie at Pensoyd station, a short distance north of the scene of the accident, and it was due to his disobedience of these orders that the accident occurred. Had he remained there a few minutes longer the loss of a dozen lives and the injuring of over a score of persons would have been averted.

Both engines were badly wrecked and both tracks were blocked. In addition, portions of the wreckage were thrown against a telegraph pole, causing the breaking of the wires and rendering communication between the city and the wreck difficult.

A few minutes after the smashup the wrecked passenger cars caught fire. An alarm brought out engines, but it was some time before the flames were extinguished. Undertakers' wagons from Manayunk were soon at the accident and willing hands extricated from the wreckage the maimed and dead passengers. Up to noon fifteen injured people had been removed to St. Mary's hospital at Roxborough, a short distance away, and ten dead bodies had been taken charge of by the undertakers.

The killed so far as known, are as follows:

Thomas Walsh, fireman of the engine of the passenger train.

Jacob Kilrain, brakeman.

A mother and daughter named Smith, from Phoenixville.

David S. Herr, of Harrisburg, a member of the state legislature.

W. Decker, Pottstown.

Newsboy on passenger train.

THE FEUD RENÉWED.

The Tolliver-Howard Vendetta of Eastern Kentucky Breaks Out Again.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 25.—A telegram received here says the Tolliver-Howard feud has broken out again in eastern Kentucky, a general fight occurring at Hogtown, Rowan county, last night between the two factions in which Col. Tolliver was shot in the breast and killed and Willie Tolliver shot in the bowels, while Sam Howard received four rifle balls in the body. The relatives and friends of the two sides are arming and a battle is expected.

This feud had been slumbering for two years when Col. Hank Tolliver married the widow of one of the Howards he had killed and everybody thought the troubles ended.

This feud has already resulted in more than fifty deaths and the present trouble promises to add many to this list.

Suicide of a Cashier.

LEOTI, Kan., Oct. 25.—George W. Young, cashier of the Leoti State bank, shot himself accidentally yesterday. The wound will likely result fatally, though there is some hope.

The Boiler Exploded.

OTTAWA, Kan., Oct. 25.—A terrific explosion occurred Sunday night in the boiler room of the Santa Fe hospital in this city, which resulted in the serious injury of Dr. Wright, the surgeon in charge, and W. E. Bliss, one of his assistants. The two men, in the absence of the engineer, Walter Hill, who was confined to his room on account of sickness, were trying to get the second of the two furnaces steamed up for the first time this fall when the boiler exploded.

Bad Man Wounded.

BUTLER, Mo., Oct. 25.—Jim Franklin, a desperado and lawless character, while resisting arrest last evening at 6 o'clock, was shot and dangerously wounded by Bacon Hartwell, deputy marshal. Franklin was drunk and drew two revolvers but the deputy was too quick for him. He was wounded three times and is not expected to live. He has served one term in the penitentiary.

The Small End.

MEXICO, Mo., Oct. 25.—The October meeting of the Mexico fair has been a losing business, the association being $1,700 in debt. There was only $800 taken in at the gate during the two weeks. Yesterday the LaCrosse Library Co. garnisheed funds in Treasurer Clark's hands and all horsemen will be deprived of their money till the affairs of the association are adjusted.

SHE IS DEAD.

Death of the President's Wife at the White House.

LIFE GRADUALLY FLICKERS OUT.

Her Strength Declines as the Hours and Minutes Fly By and Surrounded by Her Family She Peacefully Passes Away.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Harrison is no more. At 1:40 o'clock this morning came the end, and for a second time in the history of the White house a president's wife died within its walls. Mrs. Harrison met death with the patience and resignation of a devout Christian.

About 12:30 o'clock, while Dr. Gardner sat by Mrs. Harrison's side with his fingers lightly pressed to her pulse, the practiced hand discerned a noticeable weakness of the heart's action followed almost immediately by a slight decrease in respiration. He notified the grief-stricken family and it gathered around the couch. The end appeared to be very near and unless she soon rallied from the stupor into which she then was drifting she could scarcely live half an hour longer.

This intelligence had a most depressing effect upon the president who had been in constant attendance upon his afflicted wife for over nine hours and he sustained himself with the greatest difficulty. If it were possible to add to the gravity of the situation and to stimulate the agonized apprehension of the sorrowing family, gathered about the scarcely animate form of the beloved wife and mother, those results were attained when Dr. Gardner, after carefully examining the countenance and feeling the pulse of the dying woman, said that the indications were that she could not last more than half an hour. This was fifteen minutes to the minutes flew past, at 1:30 the helpless form, however, still retained the sacred spark.

The resistance offered by the constitution of the patient was surprising to the physician and all at the bedside. There was no struggle, no exhibition of pain, but a seemingly passive resistance that was beautiful in its quietude. Dr. Gardner took up the feeble hand and felt the wrist. The blood still crept through the arteries, but O, how slowly. He shook his head and said that a brief fifteen minutes must surely finish the struggle.

The agitation of the family could no longer be controlled and realizing his utter helplessness to longer cope with her formidable foe, and from consideration for the sacredness of such grief as this the physician and friend bowed his head and passed out of the door.

Outside of the threshold he took his station and waited. It was not a long time. The minutes flew like seconds and suddenly there was an expression of heart stricken woe and the end had come. The president was beside his dying wife, as he had been for nine hours continuously, and his were the last loved features her eyes had dwelt upon. Her breath was labored and very slow. As the hands of the clock crept toward the next hour it grew fainter yet and less frequent, and as the time-piece marked the hour of 1:40 o'clock there was an interruption of the feeble breath, a resumption and then a stop, this time to be the last. Life had gone out peacefully and quietly, and without pain.

All of the family in Washington were present at the death bed except the three little grandchildren and the venerable Dr. Scott, the father of Mrs. Harrison. They were: President Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harrison, Lieut. and Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Dimmick and Mrs. Newcomer. In addition Mrs. Harrison's faithful maid, Josephine, and Miss Davis, the trained nurse, were in the room.

The members of the family spent a few minutes around the lifeless clay. When they emerged with sorrowful faces the president retired immediately to his own room and closed the door, the other members of the family respecting his evident wish to be allowed to remain unmolested to contemplate his great bereavement and commune with his Maker.

The others also retired and gave place to Dr. Gardner. His practiced eye told the story. He passed out and then the last sad offices for the dead were performed by the nurse, Miss Davis, who composed the remains for the hands of the undertaker. The doctor went home, and the last of the many questions put by the knot of waiting newspaper reporters were answered by Mr. Halford, the lights were dimmed and the quiet of the grave crept upon the great white mansion. Several policemen, who had been summoned, were stationed at all the entrances of the grounds to prevent people from intruding on the privacy of the president and family in their bereavement.

Telegrams conveying the sad intelligence were also at once dispatched to all members of the cabinet and Mrs. Harrison's brother, who was in the hope of seeing her before the end came. He was at Port Townsend yesterday. The funeral arrangements were completed as follows: Religious services will be held at the White house Wednesday morning, whence the remains will be taken to the cemetery of Crown Hill, Indianapolis, Thursday.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

Mrs. Harrison was born at Oxford, O., fifty-eight years ago October 1 last, of Scotch ancestry. The first of her paternal ancestors in America was John Scott, the laird of Arras, after the disastrous battle of Bosworth in 1485 left Scotland for the north of Ireland with the earl of Belhaven, owing to dissatisfaction with the Scotch and English crowns. After the death of the earl John Scott came to America and settled in the valley of the Neshaminy, Bucks county, Pa., where the village of Hartsville now stands, 20 miles north of Philadelphia. He purchased a tract of land from the proprietary government, on part of which the first Presbyterian church in America was soon afterward erected. On this land, also, Rev. William Tennant founded in 1726 the historic "log college," out of which primitive instruction Princeton college was in time evolved. Both her father and grandfather were Presbyterian ministers. Mrs. Harrison enjoyed superior educational advantages and was graduated from the Oxford seminary in 1852, the same year that President Harrison received his degree. She taught school in Carrollton, Ky., one year, and on October 29, nine years ago last Thursday, was married to Benjamin Harrison, the statesman.

Mrs. Harrison had two children—Russell, who is now engaged in journalism, and Mary, the wife of Robert J. McKee, of Boston. The latter has two children, Benjamin Harrison McKee, known to fame the world over as "Babe" McKee, and Mary McKee.

One of Mrs. Harrison's most sensible innovations at the White house was the abandonment of handshaking at receptions, a custom that made the evening one of torture to all her predecessors. She managed this by carrying a fan in one hand and a bouquet in the other, so persons seeing her hands full were spared the awkwardness of offering a handshake which she would not accept.

Mrs. Harrison was not well known beyond Indianapolis and Washington, but in both places she was extremely popular. She united with the Presbyterian church when she was fourteen years old and had ever since been an ardent worker in behalf of Christianity and education. Mrs. Harrison's father has been living at the White house with his daughter and the old man's sorrow is distressing to behold. He is 94 years old.

DR. GARDNER INTERVIEWED.

Mrs. Harrison's Physician Talks of the End of His Distinguished Patient.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—In an interview soon after the death of Mrs. Harrison Dr. Gardner said:

"As a matter of fact Mrs. Harrison's cough, temperature, pulse and respiration decreased after she reached Loon lake, but the improvement was only temporary and the cough and fever soon became as bad as before. Since her return to Washington, a little over a month ago, her cough has been continuous, her temperature has ranged from 103 to 104 and her respiration from 50 to 60 a minute. The pulse has averaged over 120.

"Can you say anything as to Mrs. Harrison's general condition before the disease made its appearance?"

"Yes, as she inherits tuberculosis, there having been cases that we have found. Her brother and sister, I understand, died from that disease."

"Are you willing to make any statement as to the nature of the treatment?"

"No," responded the doctor. "We did all that could be done with the knowledge that there is nothing that will cure consumption. I am not willing to give to the public such information as will cause comment. Suffice it to say that in our consultation at Loon lake it was agreed that no other treatment was possible. Dr. Trudeau is an allopath and Dr. Dougherty and I are homeopaths. So we represent both sides of the medical controversy. The primary cause of death was pulmonary tuberculosis and the immediate cause was exhaustion, and it would be so stated in the certificate of death to the health department."

"Mrs. Harrison was perfectly conscious to the end. The final change in her condition came Sunday morning when she had a paroxysm of coughing followed by a period of extreme exhaustion, from which she was never able to rally. She grew weaker rapidly and each succeeding hour showed a decrease of strength. At 7 o'clock I was summoned to the house and found Mrs. Harrison was so weak she could not speak above a whisper and she had completely lost the power of swallowing. All nourishments were necessarily discontinued from that time. She slept and dozed most of the day, but retained consciousness throughout during the short intervals of wakefulness. The end came quietly and peacefully and she passed away without a struggle. It was like the snuffing of a candle. Her breathing was scarcely perceptible to those around her bedside and her life went out before they had fairly realized it."

BANKERS AS TEAMSTERS.

They Take the Places of Striking Laborers at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25.—A serious strike of laboring men, extending to all branches of trade, is threatened here. The warehouse men and packers employed by the merchants and the drivers employed by the boss draymen made demands of their employers which were refused and this morning struck, with the effect of greatly embarrassing trade. The laborers' principal demand was that none but union men should be employed and this precipitated the strike. The employers are determined and a large and representative meeting was held this afternoon at the board of trade at which it was decided to fight to a finish. The employers declared that they would in no way recognize the union laborers. Leading bankers and merchants were driving ordinary drays and floats through the streets to the railroads and were jeered at by crowds of strikers. If the strike extends to other lines of trade the business of the city will be completely tied up.

Baker Beats Washburn.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 25.—The Baker university football team was the victor in the game played here with the Washburn college team. The score was 14 to 0.

An Infuriated Elk.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—John Ford, aged 50 years, a keeper at the Zoological garden had a terrible encounter with an infuriated Rocky Mountain elk and received injuries which resulted in his death.

DEATH OF WORKMEN

Fall of a Bridge Under a Construction Train.

A TERRIBLY FATAL RESULT.

Seven Men Killed and Four Fatally Injured—A Construction Train Wrecked Near Milwaukee—Two Men Killed and Several Hurt.

SPOKANE FALLS, Wash., Oct. 25.—News of a fatal accident on the construction of the Great Northern road across the Columbia river reached here last night. A large force of men was engaged in laying track across the false work of the second bridge west of Columbia, when suddenly and without warning the entire structure gave way, dashing them on the rocks sixty feet below. The construction train with several carloads of rails and ties also went down in the wreck, crushing a number of workmen out of all human semblance. As near as can be learned the killed are: Conductor John Leonard, John Johnson, James A. Wright, Dan Walcott, Nels Nelson, Joseph Brady, A. Oleson.

The fatally wounded are: J. Milinore, Gus Nelson, J. J. Campbell and J. Linville. Several others were severely injured, but will recover. The wounded were taken to the hospital at Wehatchee and are under medical treatment.

ANOTHER WORK TRAIN ACCIDENT.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 25.—A disastrous railroad wreck occurred on the Milwaukee & Northern branch of the St. Paul railroad, sixty miles north of this city, at 10:55 yesterday morning, resulting in the death of two men and the injuring of half a dozen more. The dead are: Thomas Fitzgerald and Nick Rengle, section hands.

The list of injured so far as known is as follows: Frank Bowen, section foreman, shoulder and wrist sprained; John Jacob, badly cut about the face; William Peal, four ribs crushed on right side, with other internal injuries, condition serious; Chris E. Sling, contusion of the shoulder.

The wrecked train was a construction train and was backing down to Plymouth from a gravel pit. A flagman was sent back to flag No. 14, a freight coming south. Either the flagman failed to perform his duty, or the signals were unobserved, and train No. 14 ran into the work train.

IRVINE ACQUITTED.

The Killing of Banker Montgomery Justified in the Eyes of the Jury.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 25.—William H. Irvine, of Salt Lake City, who has been on trial here for a week for shooting and killing Banker Charles F. Montgomery in the dining room of the Hotel Lincoln, May 26, was acquitted yesterday afternoon. The trial created widespread interest in the city and county. The defense was that Montgomery had wronged Irvine's wife and that Irvine was so wrought up over his ruined home that he was not responsible for his action. The scene in the court room when the verdict was read was dramatic in the extreme. A lady who sat behind Irvine threw her arms around him and kissed him. In front of Irvine sat his aged uncle from Iowa, who had come to see him through his trouble. The old man embraced his nephew and sobbed like a child. There was such a shout from the spectators that the name of the foreman read by the clerk was not heard. The crowd rushed toward Irvine and shook him by the hand. He responded by inarticulate words of thanks. Irvine was then driven to the house of a friend. Mrs. Irvine is with relatives at Marion, Ind.

RUINOUS CHATTER.

Talk of Ghost Dancing and Indian Outbreaks Hurtful to Business.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Oct. 25.—The reports which have gone through the press regarding a threatened outbreak among the Sioux Indians of the Pine Ridge and Rosebud agencies have aroused the entire southwestern portion of South Dakota and northern Nebraska, and have worked a great injury to the mercantile interests there.

United States Marshal Mathieson arrived in this city this morning from Pine Ridge and Rosebud agencies, where he has been among the Indians for two weeks. He has jurisdiction over them and became familiar with the Sioux. He says there is positively no truth in the report that the Indians are preparing for ghost dancing and a subsequent outbreak. They are perfectly satisfied, receiving ample beef and other rations. It is untrue that they have secret ghost shirts on the reservations. The Indians have no arms except a few who are friendly with the whites.

All Greenfield Insane.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 25.—Prof. Jem Evans, lightweight pugilist, received a letter from England saying that Alf Greenfield, the noted English heavyweight, who fought John L. when the ex-champion was in the heyday of his glory, was hopelessly insane and had been confined in an asylum for the demented. Greenfield was a stanch admirer of the Boston boy and staked every penny he had in the world upon Sullivan in the recent affair at New Orleans. He shared the fate of all of Sullivan's followers and it is thought that his financial losses preyed so upon him that he lost his mind.

Mrs. Trask of Emporia Loses Her Suit.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The District of Columbia court in general term decided the case of the United States ex. rel. Elizabeth Trask against John Wanamaker, postmaster general. The relator was the postmaster at Emporia, Kan., from 1864 to June 20, 1870, who claimed that she was entitled to a readjustment of salary and there was due her $206.19. The court holds that the act of 1866 was prospective and that the act of 1883 does not alter this act so far as to entitle the relator to the relief and the writ is denied.

SEDALIANS FOR SEDALIA.

Sedalia is a growing, ambitious city.

She wants the state capital.

She wants a large appropriation for a state fair.

She wants several other things that can only be had at the hands of the general assembly.

The general assembly of Missouri will be democratic, and the most influential members will naturally be democrats.

Then if Sedalia has measures she wants enacted, other things being equal, a democrat can serve her most efficiently.

Sedalia has as a candidate for the senate one of her worthiest citizens in the person of Hon. Chas. E. Yeater.

He is an honorable, upright, honest man.

He is a man of ability and fit to be a leader in the senate—a pleasing, eloquent speaker and a close thinker.

Then he is a Sedalia man. Next to his family comes his town, and as a representative in the senate he would be on guard for Sedalia and Sedalia's interests.

Not on guard for democrats only, but for the town; for the general public interests, and his services in this way will be as valuable to republican business men as to democrats.

And yet the Gazette, a newspaper published in Sedalia and dependent upon Sedalia business men for support, lets its partisanship blind it to the public interest and makes a most unreasonable war upon Mr. Yeater merely because he did what the law required him to do in the matter of bringing tax suits.

That is not the way other towns do when they have measures pending in the general assembly.

Jefferson City republicans forget their party when it comes to electing representatives. The republicans of Cole county voted for Gen. McIntyre, a democrat and an ex-confederate, time and time again because he was able to fight more efficiently for them than any republican could have done. And they are supporting the democratic candidate, Mr. Edwards, for the same reason.

But our republican contemporary not only opposes a Sedalia man on party grounds, but makes an unfair, uncalled for fight upon him.

The republicans of this city, however, will not follow their organ in this matter. They see that in striking at Mr. Yeater their organ is striking at the interests of Sedalia, and that is something no loyal Sedalian will endorse.

COLLECTING TAXES.

The law makes it the duty of the citizen to pay his taxes.

Some citizens, the great majority of them in fact, pay this public debt as they do their private ones, promptly when due.

If others do not pay, then the law requires the collector to bring suit to compel payment.

Mike Doherty did his duty; his attorney, Charley Yeater, did his, and they collected thousands of dollars of delinquent taxes.

And now, on the eve of the election, the republican organ calls upon these men who failed and refused to pay the debt they owed the county, to vote against Doherty and Yeater because they did their sworn duty by taking the steps the law pointed out for the collection of delinquent taxes.

With this kind of a fight upon him, the tax-payers of Pettis county cannot afford to permit Mike Doherty to be defeated.

Such defeat would say to the tax-dodgers, "You need not pay. No tax collector will dare perform his duty."

Doherty's defeat would be putting a premium upon refusal to pay taxes, and put upon the men who do pay the whole cost of the county government.

The men who think more of good government than they do of party success recognize that it is their interest as well as their duty to see that a man shall not be defeated for doing his duty.

THE democrats of Pettis county are doubly interested in the election of W. D. Steele to the office of prosecuting attorney, or, at least, they should be. In the first place, he is a splendid lawyer, far superior to his opponent in legal ability as is admitted by everybody, and much more capable of caring for the interests of the county. 'Tis seldom a county has the opportunity of getting a prosecutor of his well known ability, vim and energy. In the next place, he is a democrat of democrats: a born, tried and true democrat of the dyed-in-the-wool fibre. His democracy knows no flinching, no flagging. If the country democrats of this county all knew what untiring, bold, fearless, magnificent work he has done for the party in the hot campaigns of this city and county in times past, not a one of them would think of scratching him for any personal or other reason. If you have a neighbor who thinks of scratching him, tell him this. It is your duty to your party.

Judge R. E. FERGUSON will succeed himself as county judge, and why should he not? He has made Pettis county one of the best and most faithful officials she has ever had; he is always to be found on the side of justice and right; he is cool headed, fearless in the discharge of his official duties; always ready to give to every one a patient hearing on all questions that may come up under his supervision; he is always found at his post of duty whenever the county court is in session.

As Sheriff Smith is said to be soliciting democrats to vote for him for collector, and as the Gazette has claimed that democrats would so vote, it would be well for Mr. Smith to answer the following interrogatory: Did he, or did he not, say last spring in the presence of a crowd: "I don't want a democrat's vote," or words to that effect? Will Mr. Smith explain, or will the Gazette do a little explaining?

SPRINGFIELD has gone to work in earnest to secure the north and south railroad. Over thirty thousand dollars was subscribed at one meeting and the total amount asked from Greene county will be raised in a few days. Sedalians must get to work and raise their quota so as to be ready when other counties respond. The enterprise is too important to admit of delay.

SOME of the very men who are denouncing city officials for "failure to do their duty" are also abusing Mike Doherty for doing what the law required him to do. Curious isn't it? You can't always tell whether a man is expressing an honest, sincere sentiment or simply trying to deceive somebody else.

THE anti-Warner republicans are getting pretty numerous in this state and singular as it may appear many of them are found in Kansas City, Warner's home.

ON TO SEDALIA.

Springfield at Work for the New Railroad.

From the Springfield Leader.
When Springfield puts on her "store clothes" there are few if any towns that presents a better appearance. Our people don't indulge in dress parades or seemings. We are a matter of fact people, eschewing duds and pretenses. The specious are quickly detected and the glitter is quickly separated from the gold. Our people are slow in action, weighing and deliberating, but when they solve a proposition and reduce it to a common denominator they know where they are "at."

Last night was inauspicious, but the rich and the poor, all classes and conditions, accepted the invitation of the owners of the Grand Opera House and repaired there at the appointed hour. They meant business. The feeling that the future of Springfield is interwoven with the proposed railroad animated every heart, and prompted them to generous action. The subscription of one-third the amount required at one meeting is an evidence of the earnestness of the people, and manifests their determination not to be distanced in the race of life. And the names inscribed upon that roll represent a small fraction of the people of our city. The absent names are conspicuous and will come in on the home stretch.

It was a memorable night and gives the lie to those who assert that Springfield is lacking in enterprise.

Price of Admission Reduced.

The fair association has reduced the price of admission for to-morrow and Saturday to fifty cents—that sum pays for admission to all parts of the grounds, grand stand included.

DALTON'S DAY.

THE DISTINGUISHED ORATOR TO SPEAK HERE.

Saturday Evening the Date For a
Grand Democratic Rally
in Sedalia.

There will be a grand democratic rally in this city Saturday night, the 29th, and Dick Dalton, the peerless orator and democrat, will address the people.

Democrats will meet at the market house square at 7 p.m. with torches and bands and march to East Sedalia where Col. Dalton will speak a few minutes and then all will march to the court house.

Clubs from the country will be present. Mayor E. W. Stevens will be chief marshal.

Militia To Protect Debate.

From the Chronicle.
A furious church war is raging in the town of Platt, Ill. A debate on infant baptism of some other such burning question was held in the neighborhood. One dark night the heavens were illumined by the conflagration of the Disciples Christian Church. There was talk about it, and various hints were given out.

Recently the door of the New Light Church was decorated with a grinning skull and cross-bones. The brethren and sisters of the congregation armed themselves to the teeth and awaited an attack. While they were waiting their church went up in flames. The next theological debate will have to be held in the school house, and it may be best to call on the governor for military assistance to preserve the peace while the debate is in progress.

Luck is so Funny.

Bab in the St. Louis Republic.

Funny thing, luck is. You think some fellow is lucky when he has made a deal of money, and doesn't seem to have to bother himself—he may have had the good luck, but he backed it with hard work.

You think a woman is lucky when she has got a good, kind, true husband—she may have had the luck to get him, but she backed it up with love, consideration and tenderness to keep him.

You think a horse lucky when it has won a great race and a big purse—it may have had the luck to be well bred, but it had to be trained well and ridden by a first-class jockey to back this luck.

You think a man is lucky when he holds four kings in a game of poker—he may have been wise, however, and not thrown away his dollars when he didn't hold the cards, and so had them as a backer when the luck came.

My friends, luck and pluck always go together, and their backer is perseverance. What you count good luck may be nothing. What I count good luck is to have your approval. And I back my luck by always trying to do the best I can. Don't you approve of the scheme?

OPEN LETTER TO MCKINLEY.

A Practical Illustration of the Many Benefits of Protection.

St. Louis, Oct. 24.—Mr. Wm. McKinley: DEAR SIR—You will pardon me, I hope, for occupying a few moments of your time on a matter personal to myself. The truth is that I am out of pocket since the passage of your famous tariff bill about $150 on account of the immediate advance in price of material used in my business, namely, artificial teeth.

Not being able to charge a fractional part of a cent more for a set of teeth than I did before the passage of your tariff bill, I consider that you, as the author and defender of said bill, are in my debt the amount that I am out of pocket.

I will state that I have already forwarded a statement of account to Ash & Sons, of London, England, to ascertain definitely whether they, as foreign manufacturers, are willing to bear any part of the burden.

As they reply in the negative, and moreover as my customers are unwilling to share any part of the loss, my only recourse is to fall back on you as the instigator of the bill or be out of pocket that much.

I therefore take the liberty of rendering a statement of account, hoping that you will consider the matter favorably.

Major McKinley of Ohio.
To J. McCoy, Dr.
To advance in price of cheap grades of teeth by American manufacturer on the passage of protective tariff bill 60 per cent—loss to me per year, $150.00

You will notice that if these conditions exist for 10 years it will place you in my debt $1,500—providing you acknowledge the claim, which I hope you will do.

I will say that I am wearing a cheaper grade of coat this year than I did last; not out of choice but necessity.

I would therefore respectfully ask for a speedy adjustment.

Yours,
J. McCoy.

MURDER!

Another Terrible Crime.

ALSO RAPED!

Johannah Schollman, a German Servant Girl, the Victim— Found on Seventeenth Street.

HER THROAT CUT.

Evidences of a Terribly Desperate Battle for Her Life—A Knife Clotted With Blood Found in a Garden.

The demon of murder was abroad in Sedalia last night. While the people slept a most horrible and bloody murder was committed in a lonely spot in the south part of the town.

This alone in view of recent affairs was enough to make people shudder, but added to this was the monstrous crime of rape.

About 6:30 o'clock this morning Louis Banes, a colored blacksmith, living at No. 1905 South Missouri avenue, was going to the residence of Col. John D. Crawford, northeast corner of Fifteenth and Kentucky, to carry off the slops, when he was startled to stumble across the body of a woman lying in the weeds on the south side of Seventeenth between Kentucky and Monticau, and about 40 feet east of the latter highway.

Coming closer he was horrified to see that the woman was dead, her face and hands covered with blood, and her clothes badly disarranged.

He ran at once to the residence of Dr. A. V. Small, near by, and told him of the discovery. Both hastened to the spot and Dr. Small saw immediately that a fiendish murder had been committed. The woman was dressed in a slate colored dress over which was buttoned a light colored jacket of woolen material. A new pair of button shoes, rather coarse, with the soles scarcely soiled, were upon her feet. Upon her hands were a pair of black yarn mittens, badly torn, the left one indicating that she had grabbed some rough object, undoubtedly a hedge fence near by. This hand was bloody and badly lacerated. Her face clearly indicated that she was a German. She was a young woman. Her lips were covered with froth as if she had been choked, while a long stream of dried and clotted blood, looking like a deep gash, ran from the base of her right ear diagonally down to a point immediately beneath her nose. Her throat was also terribly gashed. Her light hair retreated back from her forehead and a pair of blue eyes, half closed, stared out into the vacancy of the dark and cloudy October morning. Her straw bonnet lay near her.

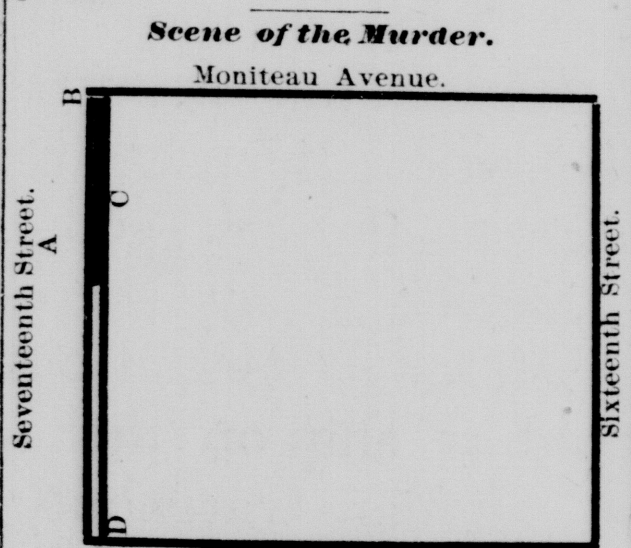

The body lay on its back, the right arm resting upon her breast and the left one carelessly thrown backward as if she were asleep. Her dress and white skirts were drawn far back under her, showing that she had been dragged by the feet. Her thighs were scratched and torn in long red lines by the broken weeds, showing that she had been brutally used.

When a DEMOCRAT reporter arrived but a small crowd of curious minded people were there, but grew rapidly in number. A messenger was sent to the authorities and Constable Robert Ramsey and Deputy Sheriff Barnett were soon on the ground, followed shortly by Chief of Police John DeLong.

No one seemed to recognize the woman, and not until the arrival of Mr. M. E. Hannefelt, living not identified. He at once recognized her as Miss Johannah Schollman, a German girl, aged 24, who was employed by Mayor Stevens as a domestic. She was distantly related to Mr. Hannefelt and a frequent visitor at his house, having visited his family last Sunday a week ago. Her parents live five miles northwest of Lincoln, Mo., on the narrow gauge railway.

The ground was being constantly looked over by the crowd which searched eagerly for any traces that would shed light upon the mystery. The following diagram will assist the reader in locating the different points:

Black line—Hedge fence.
A—Where body was found; head to the west.
B—Where struggle took place.
C—Where knife was found.
D—Residence of E. F. Harris.
Body dragged by feet from B to A through weeds.
Open ground to M., K. & T. track, on left.

Street Commissioner John Hyatt noticed that there were evidences of a struggle at B, the corner of the hedge fence. The weeds were trampled down, and a closer scrutiny showed spots of blood on the ground and weeds. The DEMOCRAT reporter found her hat pin at this point. In struggle with her assailant the woman had evidently been thrown into the hedge fence, which accounted for her torn hands. From B to A, the route over which she was dragged, were pieces of fur trimming from her cloak.

A Bloody Knife Found.
Mr. Hyatt had now continued his search and climbed over into the garden of Mr. R. F. Harris, clerk in the Third National bank, and living at the point D, almost within the edge of the hedge fence, point C, he found a large heavy pocket knife. It had a heavy buck-horn handle and contained three blades, a short one, another short and thick, and the third about three inches in length. The knife is such a one as is usually carried by farmers. This alone, in a relative way, shows that the murderer was either a laboring man or a tough, as a man engaged in light work never carries such a knife. The long blade was open and had a quantity of the fur from her cloak matted in with the blood.

Coroner Muehl had the body taken to the undertaking establishment of McLaughlin Bros., where preparations were made to hold a coroner's inquest. It was afterwards decided to postpone the inquest until 2 o'clock p. m., when the jury assembled in the criminal court room. The jury was composed of E. E. Johnston, foreman; F. S. Arnold, Jos. Kingsley, Pate Haley, Wm. Courtney and Frank Newton.

The scene at McLaughlin's was a characteristic one of such occasions. There were crowds of people of all classes and descriptions eager to catch a glimpse of the dead body, even if but for a moment. The doors of the dead room were tightly closed, however, and Coroner Muehl conducted his investigations in the presence of a few doctors, reporters and the coroner's jury. After dissecting back the tissue of the neck, it was clearly seen that the woman had come to her death by an incised wound of the jugular vein.

A further examination resulted in the discovery of a fiendish and most revolting crime. Even a glance was almost sufficient to show that the poor woman had been outraged, and in a terrible manner. She was torn and lacerated in a way that proved rape indisputable, if physical evidences go for anything in such cases.

Hunting for the Fiend.
Although there were a number of people living within a distance to hear any great outcry, yet none of them remember hearing any such noise. Louis Banes the blacksmith, says that between 12 and 1 o'clock he was awakened by a vicious and continued barking excited and could not be quieted. The police are doing their utmost in the matter and there are several theories upon which they are working.

About 4 years ago Miss Schollman was seduced under promise of marriage by Sylvanus Schupp, then clerking for Major Wm. Beck. A child was born and is now with its grandparents at Lincoln, Mo. Schupp ran away and went to St. Louis and is now clerking in a combined grocery and bar somewhere on Biddle street in that city. He was brought back from St. Louis about two years ago by Sheriff Ellis R. Smith. Schupp succeeded in compromising the matter with Miss Schollman.

Since then she has seemed to have gone rapidly to the bad, keeping company, it is claimed, even with negroes. Until yesterday at noon she was employed as a domestic by Mayor Stevens. He heard of her conduct, however, and discharged her. She left yesterday at 5 o'clock taking her personal effects with her. Mr. Hannefelt, at whose house she frequently visited, stated that she intended going to some point in Nebraska, where she was to be married to a man named Henry Garles, who is said to have sent money to her to pay her fare.

The Latest Information.
Miss Schollman left the home of her employer at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and went to the residence of Henry Miller, corner of Wilkerson and Grand avenues. She remained there until about 9 o'clock, when a man drew up in a buggy and took her away. It was then quite dark.

The officers are shadowing several men, and it is thought that one of a certain two is the right party.

Dr. Muehl stated that woman had been in a delicate condition for four months.

A young man named George Stetter claims to have seen the woman in company with a smooth-faced, dark complexioned young man of slender build, about 6 feet 7 inches high and wearing a soft black hat, at Avinsino's ice cream saloon between 9 and 10 o'clock last night. They ordered cream but the man did not eat any of it. He afterwards bought a cigar and both walked south on Ohio Street.

Some advance the theory that the party responsible for her delicate condition murdered her to escape any exposure that she might attempt to make of the affair.

The young man who got the buggy from Collins & Farnham's stable was seen to-day and was found to be all right. What was supposed to be blood on the right wheel turned out to be something else. No blood was found on or in the buggy at all.

To find the man who took the girl away from Henry Miller's at 9 o'clock means the locating of the murderer. Mr. Miller did not see the man, as he drove up to the gate called for the girl and she went out to see him. He was heard to tell her to "get her cloak and come on." This was the last seen of her by the family.

The corner's jury had not made its report at a late hour. Under the existing evidence it will be unable to say other than the cause of her death.

A Simple Water Test.
From the New York World.

Into a perfectly clean bottle having a stopper of ground glass put five ounces of water to be tested. To the water add ten grains (by weight) of pure granulated white sugar. Cork tight and set in a window exposed freely to light but not to the direct rays of the sun. Do not disturb the bottle, and keep the temperature as near 70 degrees Fahrenheit as possible. If the water contains organic matter, within forty-eight hours an abundance of whitish specks will be seen floating about, and the more organic matter the more specks. In a week or ten days, if the water is very bad, the odor of rancid butter will be noticed on removing the stopper. The little specks will settle to the bottom, where they will appear as white flaky masses. Such water should not be used for drinking purposes. This easy test is given by one of state boards of health for domestic use.

A Story on Dick Dalton.
From the Chicago Letter.

"One of the good things of the campaign in Missouri," said ex-Governor Robert A. Campbell, own expense. It was just after the Coffeyville raid. Dalton was speaking at St. Joseph. Buchanan county had been one of his strongholds, and there was some feeling over his defeat. Dalton had gone up there to try and smooth things out. He began by expressing his deep sense of gratitude to the Buchanan county people. Then he spoke of his defeat at some length, and got to the point of advising them to make the best of something that couldn't be helped and for which nobody was responsible. "In fact," said Farmer Dick, "this just seems to be a bad year for Daltons."

NOT TO BLAME.

JAMES S. HOPKINS DID NOT RAISE A ROW,

But a Correction is Refused by the Paper that Misrepresented Him.

The Gazette of Sunday morning contained the following, as well as an editorial reflecting upon Mr. James S. Hopkins:

"James S. Hopkins, candidate for sheriff on the democratic ticket, and Charles Hardin came to blows yesterday forenoon in the old Star saloon on Main street and the shrievalty nominee came out second best.

Hopkins and Hardin were discussing the former's candidacy incidentally and politics generally, and both of the men became quite heated over the debate, and from angry words they came to blows. Hopkins played the role of Sullivan and Hardin that of Corbett and the result was the same as at the New Orleans fight. Hardin was arrested by Policeman Smith on the charge of disturbing the peace and Hopkins' friends took him home to recuperate. Hardin gave bonds for trial on Monday."

Upon seeing the above, and knowing that wrong had been done Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Hardin, the man referred to in the Gazette's article, prepared the following which was taken to that paper for publication and the paper refused to publish it: SEDALIA, Mo., Oct. 24, 1892.

Editor Gazette:
I desire to state in regard to the article in your issue of last Sunday in reference to a personal encounter between myself and Mr. J. S. Hopkins, that the statements made therein by your reporter are not in accordance with the facts in the case and I am assured that your reporter has been imposed upon by designing persons with the sole desire of injuring Mr. Hopkins in his canvass. I myself, was the aggressor and Mr. Hopkins was in no sense to blame for the affair.

CHAS. HARDIN.
Having read the statement of Mr. Hardin in the above affair and having been a witness, I will say it was an unprovoked assault upon Hopkins.

JOHN D. FESLER.
It will be seen that the man Hardin, as well as another who saw the affair, both acquit Mr. Hopkins of any blame in the matter, and yet the paper that had misrepresented him refused him a chance to set himself right.

Was ever partisan malice carried further? Was ever a more cowardly act committed by a reputable journal?

And yet this is but a fair sample of the kind of a campaign that is being made against Mr. Hopkins. It is the warfare of the assassin. It is unfair, unmanly and infamous, and if it does not rally to his support hundreds of men who love justice and fairness, then the DEMOCRAT is mistaken in its estimate of Pettis county manhood and fairness.

But this is not all. Other work equally as dirty is being done in the dark by those who are afraid of the light.

Let honorable men of all parties say by their votes what they think of it, and let them remember that the tactics pursued toward Jim Hopkins will be pursued toward others unless rebuked and sealed with the condemnation of a justice-loving, fair-minded people.

A reported outbreak of cholera at Helmetta, N. J., created much excitement in that vicinity. Investigation showed that the disease was not cholera but a violent dysentery, which is almost as severe and dangerous as cholera. Mr. Walter Willard, a prominent merchant of Jamesburg, two miles from Helmetta, says Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy has given great satisfaction in the most severe cases of dysentery. Proposed Amendment to the Constitution of Missouri.

Concurrent resolution submitting to the qualified voters of the state of Missouri an amendment to the constitution thereof, concerning the relief of disabled and crippled firemen by the cities of said state having an organized fire department.

Be it resolved by the house of representatives, the senate concurring therein:

That at the general election to be held on Tuesday next following the first Monday in November, A. D. 1892, the following amendment to the constitution of the state of Missouri, concerning the relief of disabled and crippled firemen by the cities of said state, shall be submitted to the qualified voters of said state, to-wit:

SECTION 1. That section 47, of article 4 of the constitution, be amended by adding thereto the following words, to-wit: "Provided, that this shall not be so construed as to prohibit the general assembly from providing by law for authorizing the creation, maintenance and management of a fund for the pensioning of crippled and disabled firemen, and for the relief of the widows and minor children of deceased firemen, by such cities, villages or incorporated towns as may have an organized fire department—said fund to be taken from the municipal revenue of such cities, villages or incorporated towns. STATE OF MISSOURI—SS.

I, Alexander A. Lesurer, secretary of state of the state of Missouri, hereby certify that the foregoing is a full, true and complete copy of a concurrent resolution of the Thirty-sixth General Assembly of the state of Missouri, entitled: "Concurrent resolution submitting to the qualified voters of the state of Missouri an amendment to the constitution thereof, concerning the relief of disabled and crippled firemen by the cities of said state having an organized fire department," as appears by comparing the same with the original roll of said concurrent resolution now on file, as the law directs, in this office.

SHE LIKES JOHN CHINAMAN.

Missionary Baldwin Says he is Better than Some Foreigners.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Baldwin, for twenty years a missionary in China, spoke in the Asbury Methodist church yesterday before a large congregation. She spoke in high terms of the Chinese and of the kind treatment which she received at their hands during the score of years she dwelt in the empire. She regarded the Chinamen superior in many respects to other foreigners whom the United States government accords free entrance to this land and citizenship. Here certain individuals, apparently laboring men and foreigners, took umbrage at the speaker's remarks and left the church after creating some disturbance. The speaker said since she had been delivering lectures in this country she had received threatening letters, and not long ago special policemen were detailed to guard her house to circumvent a scheme for burning it down.

THE "GIDEONITES."

A Third Party Sensation Sprung in North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 20.—A political sensation has been sprung here by the exposure of the secret workings of the "Gideonites" organization. Two men named M. L. Reed and J. S. Bell, both leading alliance men, have made sworn statements to the effect that S. Ott Wilson, state chairman of the third party, initiated them into the order. Bell found that there were only thirty members to each county and not over 300 to each congressional district, all being specially chosen for influence and as men who could be relied upon in case of an emergency. It was a solemn obligation to implicitly obey all orders of the county, district, state and national chiefs. Wilson said the purpose of the order was to promote the third party movement. Bell told Wilson that he regarded the organization as dangerous, and said it would result in the destruction of the alliance and the third party. The state constitution expressly forbids any secret political organization, having been prepared to crush out the union league and kluks. There are demands for the arrest of Wilson and those who aided him in forming this order, and grand juries have been called upon.

MISSOURI'S POPULATION.

It Exceeds 2,679,184, All Races and Both Sexes Included.

Census bulletin No. 208, dated September 30, was mailed yesterday. It gives the population of Missouri as 2,679,284, of whom 1,385,238 are males and 1,294,046 are females. There are 2,444,315 native born citizens and 234,969 foreigners. There are 2,528,458 whites and 150,726 colored people. Among the colored are included Chinese, Japanese and civilized Indians. The population of St. Louis is given as 451,770, distributed as follows: Males, 228,114; females, 223,656; natives, 336,894; foreign, 114,876; whites, 424,704; colored, 27,066.

SENTENCES PASSED.

Judge Phillips Sends Two Law Breakers to the Penitentiary.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 21.—The October term of the United States circuit and district courts was adjourned yesterday, the docket having been emptied, and Judge Phillips departed for his home in Kansas City. Among the sentences passed was one of nine months in the penitentiary jail and a fine of $50 on Jet Robinson of Fayette, Howard county, for violation of the pension law. It was proved that Robinson extorted big fees for securing pensions for his clients. The court also forced Robinson to return his illegal fees. R. E. Olds, of Boone county, was given two years for counterfeiting.

COURTED ONLY AN HOUR.

Widower Day and Widow Peterson Quickly Wed.

St. JOSEPH, Mo., October 21st.—Yesterday afternoon S. B. Day, a wealthy merchant of Humboldt, Neb., was at the union depot, and there met Mrs. Jennie Peterson, a blushing widow of 39 summers who resides at Barrensville, O. The two after an hour's conversation, repaired to the Laidell hotel, summoned a minister, and were married. Day is a widower, 59 years of age, and the father of several children.

Important to Voters.

Secretary of State Lesueur is doing his utmost to render the new election law a success and to enable the public to comprehend its provisions fully. "There will be a great big sheet," says the secretary,

"containing four tickets—democratic, republican, people's and prohibition. You can't vote on all these groups. You must cross out all the names on all the tickets except one. If there is anybody on the ticket remaining whom you don't want to vote for scratch his name off and underneath it write the name of the person you do want to vote for. You will have to do all your voting under one of the headings—democratic, republican, people's or prohibition. If you try to leave a name on the people's ticket and another on the republican or democratic ticket you will find all rejected. Tell the people all voting must be done in one group. It is curious what misapprehensions exist in regard to this important matter."

"How about the illiterate, the blind, the crippled, etc?"
"The illiterate will have to call on the judges for assistance; likewise those physically disabled. By the way, old persons should not forget their glasses that day, for the voting apartments will not be well lighted and the ticket will be long. The judges and clerks would be doing a patriotic service by keeping an extra pair or two of glasses for the use of the careless; but the fellow who is almost sure to lose his vote is the one who gets drunk before voting. He is certain to get things wrong and find his vote thrown out."

FURTHER DEMANDS.

Operators Will Soon Ask New Schedules on All Western Roads.

St. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 21.—The telegraph operators on the Cotton Belt road held a conference with General Manager Dodge yesterday for the purpose of securing an increase in wages. The conference was merely formal, as Mr. Dodge informed the committee that he would give them the same schedule agreed upon by the Missouri Pacific.

The Wabash line and others in the Gould system will soon be called upon to adjust their schedule in accordance with the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Santa Fe and Frisco roads, which have already granted an advance over the old salaries paid. As soon as the Wabash and other roads in the Gould system are dealt with a demand will be made upon the Burlington road. Grand Chief Ramsay evidently anticipates a struggle when the demand is made and is preparing for a fight, but until the strike on the Gulf division of the Santa Fe is settled, no further demands will be made on any of the other roads. Grand Chief Ramsay is still in Chicago endeavoring to arrange a settlement with President Marvel of the Santa Fe system.

INDIGNANT NEGROES.

They Were Slighted and Insulted at Marshall and Will Bolt.

Many negroes who attended the republican rally here yesterday were not pleased with the treatment they received at the hands of their white republican brethren, says a Marshall telegram to the Republic, and many openly declare that they will not now support the state ticket.

In the first place the negroes were not allowed to march in line with the white republicans from the C. & A. depot to the city. The white clubs, preceded by Major Warner and the reception committee, came in on one street and the colored troops on another. On reaching the square the white infantry entered the court yard through the east gate and the negro forces through the west gate.

In the second place, the white visitors were provided with lunches and the negroes had to hustle for something to eat, and as a consequence, about two-thirds of them went home without their dinners. They came here expecting to be fed and were disappointed. On the occasion of the democratic rally on September 15, 10,000 visitors were provided with bounteous dinners, colored visitors included, and there was some left over. Yesterday there were not 2,000 in attendance, and half of them obtained little or nothing to eat. The majority of the republicans in this county are negroes, and such treatment as they received yesterday will not be forgotten very soon by them.

DAMAGE SUITS INSTITUTED.

Nevada People Who Have Been Injured by Cars Want Damages.

NEVADA, Mo., Oct. 21.—Last July Mrs. Carrie Helke, in attempting to save her little boy from being crushed by a switch engine in the Nevada yards, was struck by the engine and fell under the wheels. She was frightfully mangled but recovered and yesterday she instituted suit for $35,000 damages against the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railway company.

Mrs. Susan Duran began suit for $10,000 against the Missouri Pacific railway for injuries sustained in the wreck of a passenger train near Ovid during September. Her husband also began suit against the same company for $2,000 on the ground of expense.

BLOODTHIRSTY MINERS.

Strikers in Idaho Say They Will Have Gore if Non-Union Men Do Not Get Out.

A Wallace, Id., dispatch says: Last night three armed men went into one of the tunnels of the Gem mines and posted the following notice:

"Look, scabs!"
"One more warning—the last one. Before this month is over 1,500 pounds of giant powder will be exploded, and all in this mine will be sent to h—l. It is in the mine ready for action, fuse attached. If we cannot work the mines, no one else shall."

BLOODY JACK.
The men were seen by a carman who was coming out of the mine with a car of ore. When he caught sight of the armed men he ran back into the tunnel and reported the matter to the shift boss. When they came back to the mouth of the tunnel the men were gone and the above notice was found. The carman was unable to identify the men.

AN EXPERT IN COW FLESH.

What He Didn't Know About Cattle Brands Wasn't Worth Knowing.

Some years ago when the cattle business was in its prime in Texas and wealthy stockmen accompanied their shipments to the eastern markets a party of these genial, free-and-easy gentlemen were entertained by their city friends at breakfast in the Palmer house, Chicago.

Naturally the conversation was somewhat stocky.
"Bless your soul!" exclaimed a much-gold-watch-chained individual from Kansas City, "I never depend on the weigher in an estimate of my cattle. I can size a steer up with my naked eye within a few pounds of where he'll tip the beam."

"Oh, yes," said one of the hosts. "You know our famous stockman on East Middy Morgan, was wonderfully proficient in that line. All the big buyers wanted his opinion of a steer before anybody else's."
"Gentlemen," broke in an old loughorn who had been apparently absorbed in a prolonged and frantic effort to cut his steak. "Gentlemen," laying down his knife and fork, readjusting his glasses and ruefully surveying the adamant morsel, "I reckon you would be surprised if I was to tell you that I am that proficient on cow flesh that I can tell the brand that was on the steer that steak was cut off of!"
They all confessed that that would indeed be carrying the science to a wonderful degree of proficiency. "Well, gentlemen," the oracle continued solemnly, "I'll bet $500 and throw in my gun to boot that that there steer was branded 'B. C.'"

COUNTY SURVEYOR.
The Right Man for that Very Important Place.
To the Editor of the Democrat.
County surveyor is an important office, and should be filled by a man who is not only a competent surveyor, but who thoroughly understands the construction of roads and bridges, the great need which Pettis county feels so much at the present time. Sedalia is rapidly increasing in population; our farming community is becoming more prosperous with each succeeding year, good roads are demanded and must be made and the office of county surveyor should be given to a man who can materially assist in this work. The democrats of Pettis county have wisely selected such a man for this responsible position—Thos. O. Stanley. He has had years of experience in constructing rock roads, bridges and railroads, having assisted in locating and building them in other states. His services were in demand in this county.
In 1877 he constructed an iron bridge in Pendleton Co., Ky., which has not cost that county a single dollar for repairs since that date.
The splendid macadam roads which he has assisted in building in other states, justifies the assertion that Thos. O. Stanley is unquestionably the right man in the right place.
The practical experience possessed by Mr. Stanley in surveying are far too valuable to be overlooked by the people of this county, irrespective of party.
To the farmers of Pettis county, let me say: We want good roads; we must have them; we will have them; we want a man for county surveyor who can locate them to the best advantage and economy. Mr. Stanley is the man who knows just how to do this. He would make a valuable public servant, and knowing these things it would be but justice to a good man, justice to ourselves, to vote for and elect him to the office of surveyor of Pettis county.
Everybody knows Tom Stanley; a perfect gentleman; pleasant in business and social relations; the soul of honor and integrity in all it implies; makes friends wherever he goes, and above all, a true friend of democracy. He will be found making the dust fly at a 2:03 Nancy Hanks gait on the 8th of November, coming in under the wires ahead of his opponents.
See that your ballot has the name of Thos. O. Stanley on it for county surveyor; urge your friends and neighbors to do likewise, and Pettis county will place in office a man in every respect qualified to fill this important office.
